

FREEDMAN - MANDELKORN FAMILY TREE

Notes:

- The first page is a high-level summary of the earliest generation available. The page numbers serve as an index to the detailed pages that constitute the family tree (F pages and M pages).
- The date at the top of each page indicates when that page was last updated with new or amended information. The number after the date (in brackets) indicates the total number of people on that page. In this revision, there are 775 people.
- The pages at the end provide an alphabetical index of people entering the family tree.
- The generations are presented in vertical columns, with each subsequent generation being indented to the right. The columns are headed with arbitrary numbers, commencing with Gen32. This is to facilitate future growth - as new information is added to more recent generations on the right side of the page, the resultant blank columns on the left side of the page can be deleted, and the column headings will then indicate the relative position of the generation. In this revision, no such deletions have been made. Similarly, should older information ever become available, it can be inserted into the relevant columns and headed appropriately.
- Hyphens preceding names signify that these names are the descendants, whether bloodline or adopted.
- Names of birthplaces are recorded at the time of birth, even though cities and countries might have had their names changed since (the specific exception is Lithuania, which didn't exist as a separate country in the period up to the first World War).
- The following abbreviations have been used consistently: b = born; d = died; m = married; ca = circa (about). Abbreviations of place names are intuitive (e.g. FL = Florida, S.A. = South Africa, CA = California, GA = Georgia, NSW = New South Wales, W.A = Western Australia, etc.)
- Where names are not known, blank underscores (_____) are used. If the gender is known, this is indicated by (M) or (F).

I started this tree in the mid-1990's in order to understand the relationship between the many cousins. Much of the information has been collected from the individuals themselves (or their close family), and as such has been recorded in good faith. As little or no attempt has been made to verify such information to official records, the accuracy should be interpreted accordingly.

Genealogy is never ending and for this tree to continue growing, it relies on the input of as many people as is possible. The following information is typically required:

- All names of descendants, Hebrew first names
- Spouses' full names, maiden names, Hebrew names of parents
- Town and year of birth, immigration?, marriage?, divorce?, death? Town of residence
- Anything else relevant

Please advise any errors, changes, corrections and additions to:
